When you think of Havana, what comes to mind? Vintage cars, salsa music, or maybe mojitos? But here's a twist: Cuba's capital is quietly becoming a hotspot for energy storage innovation.

And so, Javier and Elías, on that night in Havana, many hours after Trump posted the historic image of Nicolás Maduro in a gray tracksuit, with his hands cuffed and his eyes covered on ...

Cuba is investing in solar energy and battery storage to address its severe energy crisis, reduce dependency on fossil fuels, and improve the reliability and stability of its power supply.

The increase in breakdowns of portable power stations in Cuba is due to power surges, inadequate environments, and overloads. Stefan Castro advises protecting them to avoid costly repairs.

It's working - the Cienfuegos pilot project provides 8 hours of stable power to 40,000 residents. Best part? 78% of components were locally sourced. With 65,000 electric vehicles expected by 2026, ...

Containerized Battery Energy Storage Systems (BESS) are essentially large batteries housed within storage containers. These systems are designed to store energy from renewable sources or the grid ...

It's 5:30 in the morning in Arroyo Naranjo, a municipality located to the south of Old Havana. Javier (who is 27) and his father, Elías (64), cannot remember the last time they walked ...

Next-generation thermal management systems maintain optimal operating temperatures with 40% less energy consumption, extending battery lifespan to 15+ years. Standardized plug-and-play designs ...

On an average day, the Cuban government can meet only 50 to 70 percent of its country's electricity needs. On top of that, Cuba's entire grid has ...
